ACADEMIC VACANCY

POSITION: Instructor/Assistant Professor in Dietetics (9 month)

RESPONSIBILITIES: The successful candidate must be qualified to teach Dietetics. The candidate will teach undergraduate courses in nutrition and dietetics; recruit majors; participate in professional organizations; engage in scholarly pursuits; participate in DPD curriculum and DI program assessment and evaluation; and support other objectives of the College of Nursing and Allied Health Profession, which meet the mission of the University.

QUALIFICATIONS: Candidate must have a M.S. degree (PhD preferred) in nutrition or related field. Candidate must demonstrate evidence of leadership, research ability, good interpersonal skills, and involvement in professional activity. R.D., LDN status and membership in the American Dietetic Association (ADA) is required.

ADMINISTRATIVE UNIT: The University of Louisiana at Lafayette is one of the largest of eight publicly supported universities governed by the University Of Louisiana System. The academic functions of the University are organized into eight undergraduate units (Arts; Liberal Arts, Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Engineering, General Studies, and Nursing), together with the Graduate School and University College. Established in 1951, the College of Nursing and Allied Health Professions offers programs of study leading to the B. S. degree in Nursing, the Master’s degree in Nursing, the B. S. degree in Dietetics, and the B. S. degree in Dental Hygiene. Currently enrollment in the College of Nursing and Allied Health Professions is approximately 1,780 students, and all programs are fully accredited nationally.

SALARY: Salary commensurate with academic preparation and professional experience.

STARTING DATE: August 2009

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Until position is filled.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Letter of application should include a resume, official university transcripts, and three letters of recommendation. Send to:

Rachel Fournet, Ph.D., R.D., LDN
Director of Dietetics
Search Committee Chairperson
P. O. Drawer 42931
Lafayette, Louisiana 70504

An equal opportunity, affirmative action employer

EEO#AG 3-02